RACE ANALYSIS

We'll kick things off with a maiden race on the turf that looks to be pretty wide-open on paper. #9 Lieutenant General is the favorite here; however, he has never raced on the turf. That makes him vulnerable, while several others have run over this surface. #1 Irish Heartbeat was second in his only start over the turf, while Luis Saez jumps back aboard today.

RACE ANALYSIS

This is another turf race to kick off this massive card. This time, they'll go two-turns in an allowance event, which has drawn a pretty even field. #2 Porquerolles is the 8/5 favorite after losing by a neck at this level last time out at Keeneland. A repeat effort makes him the one to beat today. #4 Breakwater and #5 St. John's both have been solid as well. Bankroll Suggestion: 15-20%, win wager on #2 recommended

RACE ANALYSIS

Two horses stand out amongst the rest in this group of allowance runners who will go six-furlongs on the dirt. #1 Mirahmadi ships in for Bob Baffert after running second in a stakes race to end his 2-year-old season. Oddly enough, he is still a maiden, but has always had a lot of hype. #5 Magic Express was a decent fourth last time out at Keeneland at this level, which should translate well to this race today. Bankroll Suggestion: 10-15%, win wager on #5

RACE ANALYSIS

This maiden special weight sprint on the turf looks to be one of the toughest races on the card. #7 Rye Smile is a lukewarm favorite at 5/2 after running second at Laurel Park in her debut race. #2 Marian Cross looks to be her main challenger, and should be aided by getting back to the turf for this race. Bankroll Suggestion: 5-10%, low level exotic play recommended.

RACE ANALYSIS

The Gallorette Stakes (G3) is always a staple of the Preakness Day card. This year, #7 Fluffy Socks headlines the field at a short morning line price of 6/5. She will be taking a big drop down in class for this one; however, she has trouble winning races. Do you take the short price because of the class drop or do you try to play against? Bankroll Suggestion: 10-15%, If you like Fluffy Socks bet a win. If you don't, try to beat her with a small exotic play.

RACE ANALYSIS

A field of 7 will go to the post for the Maryland Sprint Stakes (G3), which has given us some fun results in the past. This year, #2 Prevalence comes in as the favorite after a dominant allowance win at Keeneland in his last start. He'll have to hold off #4 Jaxon Traveler, who won two straight stakes races before running fifth last time out in the Count Fleet Handicap (G3) at Oaklawn Park. Bankroll Suggestion: 0-5%, small exotic wager if anything.

RACE ANALYSIS

The 3-year-olds will take to the turf in the James W. Murphy Stakes, which has drawn a field of 12 runners. If this race stays on the turf it's completely wide-open, giving us one of the most competitive stakes races on the card. You'll need to go as deep as possible in your multi race wagers to get through this one. The favorite is #4 Twirling Point, who is 4/1 on the morning line, making him the highest priced favorite on the card. Bankroll suggestion: 0-5%, small exotic play.

RACE ANALYSIS

The Sir Barton Stakes drew a field of 10 runners this year, with #5 Corporate Power assigned as the 9/5 favorite. Two races back he defeated a tough maiden special weight field at Gulfstream Park, while last time out he was second in an allowance race at Aqueduct. He'll have to go catch #8 Tuscan Sky, who gets class relief in this spot after running seventh in the Wood Memorial Stakes (G2) at Aqueduct. Bankroll Suggestion: 10-15%, Win Wager on #5 recommended.

RACE ANALYSIS

The Jim McKay Turf Sprint Stakes is always a wild race, with this year being no different. #12 Beer Can Man has dawn the far outside post as he looks to bounce back from a poor effort in his last start. He'll take on several solid challengers, including #11 Witty, who will be looking for 3 straight victories today. #10 Charging was beaten only a neck by Witty when they faced each other last time. Bankroll Suggestion: 5-10%, Win Wager on #12 or decent sized exotic.

RACE ANALYSIS

The final race of the day is an allowance event going two-turns on the dirt. #1 Armando R headlines the field at 5/2. He'll drop to the back of the field and try to make one big run at the end. #2 Sheriff Ronnie is likely the one he'll have to catch. He looks to be the lone speed in the race, while last time out he took an allowance field gate to wire for a win at Laurel Park. Bankroll Suggestion: 0-5%, small play if anything.
