PACE ANALYSIS

Pure Speed: National Treasure, Muth

Pressing Speed: Subsanador

Stalkers: Newgate, Indispensable

Closers: Katonah, Senor Buscador

Summary: Trainer Bob Baffert has three runners in this race, including the two main speed horses, which means he should be able to control the early tempo. If he does, the others will be hard pressed to catch #3 National Treasure or #5 Muth, who already seems like the horses to beat regardless of the pace.

RACING DUDES

PROJECTED PACE:

WORKOUT ANALYSIS

TRENDING UP

#3 National Treasure: fired a bullet in his last race which signals he's ready to rebound from a poor effort last out.

#5 Muth: Working strong for months leading up to last race; nice work since that race as well.

TRENDING DOWN

#1 Newgate: Slow recent works while running off of a layoff.

#7 Indispensable: Working a tad slower than normal since his last race on September 1st at Del Mar.

BET ANALYSIS

These are always tricky races to handicap when one trainer has multiple horses that show early speed. I project #3 National Treasure gets the lead, and #5 Muth stalks the pace, setting up a match race down the stretch. I think National Treasure will be able to hold him off if he gets out to a comfortable lead.

BET ANALYSIS

This really feels like a match race between the two main Bob Baffert horses. And while I do respect the #3 National Treasure, I'm a big believer in the #5 Muth. He's healthy, filled out, and should run huge here in a prep for the Classic. Fairly confident in him in this spot but won't be easy.

PACE ANALYSIS

Pure Speed: Altobelli

Pressing Speed: Hotline Blink, Pray for the Bear

Stalkers: Cavanal, Hank Hill

Closers: One True Shance, J David, Colonel Yorke, Gallo de Fuego

Summary: Anytime you have a race with this many first time starters it's tough to determine the pace. Since it's a maiden claiming event, and the horses that have started haven't looked to be too fast early, we'll project that this should't be a swift pace.

WORKOUT ANALYSIS

#4 One True Shance: Nothing crazy, but steady works leading up to a logical debut spot.

#8 Hank Hill: Seems to have woke up in a major way in sharp work on September 1st.

#9 J David: Debut runner fired a bullet two works back before a decent maintenance work last time out.

PACE ANALYSIS

Pure Speed: Authentic Gallop, Anegada

Pressing Speed: Crystal Hill, Culture War

Stalkers: States' Right, Dom Traces

Closers: No Rematch, Battle Drum, Dream Scheme, Turnbuckle, Rag Tree, Mary's Lad

Summary: This is another race with a lot of lightly raced horses, which obviously makes the pace a guess. It probably shouldn't be too fast, with this race being two turns on the turf, and those usually have slower paces. So we will project another slow pace.

Summary: It sounds like a broken record; however, this is yet another race with a lot of first time starters, which makes the pace hard to read. The horses who have starts don't look to be overly fast early, so yet again we will predict a slow to moderate pace in this race.

Summary: This two-turn turf race looks to have a pretty slow set up. Liar's Poker should get the lead, while only a few horses will track her up the back stretch. This definitely looks like a situation where you need to be within a few lengths of the lead to have a chance.

PACE ANALYSIS

Pure Speed: Souper Quest, Coppola, One Timer

Pressing Speed: Nobals, No Nay Hudson, Gear Jockey

Summary: There is no doubt we will see pace in this race; however, it's a 5.5 furlong sprint so it's to be expected. Also, the best way to win these races is usually on or near the lead, so even if the pace is fast that doesn't mean front runners have no chance to win.

#3 Vdaytothetenacious: Fired a bullet in his final work leading up this debut race.

#4 Army Hero: Has a series of solid works leading up this debut effort today.

#5 Elise: This horse has been working like a complete monster for over a month now.

TRENDING DOWN

#1 Jungle Law: Looks to be a bit of a slow work horse and is not getting faster.

#2 Nyquist Frequency: Woke up a bit in his last work but still looks fairly slow.

#7 It's My Life: Has been sluggish since his last race at Kentucky Downs.

BET ANALYSIS

#4 Army Hero debuts today for Brad Cox, who is always tough to beat with his first time starters. #5 Eglise has been painfully close to winning in his last two starts. #9 Top Gun Rocket has lost eight straight races; however, he has hit the board in five of those eight starts.

BET ANALYSIS

This race comes down to the first time starter for Brad Cox, #4 Army Hero and the #5 Eglise, who has ran too good to lose the last two outings. I strongly believe one of these two will win. Bob Baffert has sent in #8 Tour Player which is interesting. This horse has been working great and should show speed.
