2025 42nd BREEDERS' CUP

FUTURE STARS FRIDAY

OCTOBER 31

Last year, our 2024 Breeders' Cup Trends nailed 9 of 14 races, delivering an average payout of nearly 8-1!

JUVENILE-TURF-SPRINT

RACE 6

In the seven years they have ran this race, speed has won five of them. And even though this trend was bucked in 2024, speed winning at an 71% clip is now an established trend. It's also worth noting that these five very fast winners have won at an average price of 3-1.

Takeaway: Last year confirmed that there is cheap speed and real speed. If a short price has serious speed. Take it. If the speed of the race is a long shot, fade.

JUVENILE-FILLIES

RACE 7

Over the past 15 runnings of the Juvenile Fillies, the post-time favorite has claimed victory only five times (33%): Immersive (2024), Echo Zulu (2021), Songbird (2015), My Miss Aurelia (2011), and Awesome Feather (2010). Among the ten winners who were not favorites, the average winning odds were 15-1, while the median odds were a more modest 6.55-1.

Takeaway: While favorites can and do win, historical data suggests that it requires an exceptionally talented filly to do so. For those looking to play against the favorite, targeting the second and third betting choices often presents the best value.

JUVENILE-FILLIES-TURF — RACE 8

American-based trainers have captured 13 of the 17 runnings of the Juvenile Fillies Turf (76%), making it the most U.S.-dominated turf event at the Breeders' Cup. Chad Brown alone accounts for six of those victories, underscoring his stronghold on the division. However, Aidan O'Brien has shifted the trend recently, winning two of the last three editions—both with heavy favorites.

Takeaway: Historical data favors American-based runners, but when O'Brien sends a clear favorite, the international threat becomes far more significant.

JUVENILE — RACE 9

Nine of the last 10 winners of the FanDuel Juvenile went on to compete in the Kentucky Derby the following year—a remarkable trend that includes recent stars like Citizen Bull, Fierceness, Forte, Essential Quality, and Nyquist. Despite that consistency, only one of those Juvenile winners (Game Winner) was the post-time favorite. The average winning odds across the last decade sit at 11-1, and the lone short-priced winner, Corniche (7-5 in 2021), was also the only Juvenile champion in that span who failed to make the Derby.

Takeaway: The Juvenile has been an excellent producer of future Derby starters, but history shows bettors don't need to rely on the favorite to find the winner

JUVENILE TURF — RACE 10

European-based runners have dominated the Juvenile Turf, winning 14 of 18 editions (78%) since the race's inception. Aidan O'Brien and Charlie Appleby have accounted for 10 of those victories combined, with an average winning price of 5-1. The dominance has only intensified in recent years, as Europeans have won the last four editions—three of them trained by O'Brien.

Takeaway: The Juvenile Turf consistently runs through O'Brien and Appleby. Identify the most convincing contender from their barns and structure wagers accordingly.

FILLY & MARE SPRINT

RACE 4

The Filly & Mare Sprint has never produced a gate-to-wire winner in its 18-year history, underscoring how difficult front-running tactics are in this race. By contrast, favorites have been reliable, winning 4 of the last 6 editions (67%).

Takeaway: Toss pure speed. Focus on runners who can track and finish, and don't be afraid to side with a short price if the right trip profile is there.

TURF SPRINT

RACE 5

This race has proven highly volatile. Favorites have won just 5 of 17 editions (29%), with average winning odds of 14-1. International runners have accounted for only two victories: Glass Slippers (2020) and Starlust (2024). Further, since the cutback to five furlongs in 2019, only one favorite has won (Golden Pal, 2021), while winners have averaged nearly 20-1.

Takeaway: With favorites unreliable and payouts inflated, this race historically rewards long-shot plays over short-priced runners.

SPRINT

RACE 6

Gate-to-wire wins in the Sprint are exceedingly rare—just 2 in the last 27 years (Reraise, 1998; Big Drama, 2010)—despite several elite speed attempts. Favorites have also struggled, winning only 2 of the last 11 runnings (Runhappy, 2015; Elite Power, 2023), with average winning odds of nearly 8-1.

Takeaway: History shows the Sprint rewards stalkers and closers with tactical speed, not front-runners. Unless you're convinced a generational talent like Runhappy or Elite Power is in the field, the smart play is to demand value on horses who can settle just off the pace and finish strongly.

DISTAFF

RACE 7

The Distaff has historically been defined by elite talent. Past winners include some of the most accomplished mares of the modern era—Zenyatta, Royal Delta (twice), Beholder, Untapable, Monomoy Girl (twice), Malathaat, and Idiomatic. With the exception of the 2021 shocker by Japanese-bred Marche Lorraine at 50-1, 15 of the last 16 winners have gone off at odds of less than 5-1, underscoring the dominance of proven class in this event.

Takeaway: With defending champion Thorpedo Anna likely retired, this year's Distaff shapes up as a wide-open affair. Historically, the race has rewarded proven class—15 of the last 16 winners went off at less than 5-1—making established Grade 1 form a key angle. But without a clear division leader to anchor the field, this year's edition has the potential to be far more competitive and unpredictable than usual.

TURF

RACE 8

European-based runners have dominated this race, winning 16 of the past 21 editions (76%), including 9 of the last 10 and the last five straight. Remarkably, only 4 of those 16 winners were favorites, with average winning odds of 6-1.

Takeaway: Euro class is the clear trend. Defending champion Rebel's Romance (Charlie Appleby) looms large, but history shows overseas contenders often deliver value beyond the favorite.

CLASSIC

RACE 9

Over the past 15 years, the Breeders' Cup Classic has been tougher on favorites than most marquee races. The post-time favorite has won just 4 times in that span. Yet, even when the favorite fails, the winners have not been outrageous longshots—the average winning odds sit at a modest 5-1. In fact, in each of the last 12 runnings, the winner has come from within the top four betting choices. Looking further back, since 1999 the Classic winner's average odds are 7-1, underscoring how often the race rewards class over chaos.

Historically, 3-year-olds have held their own, winning 14 of the 41 prior Classics. Of those, just four also captured the Kentucky Derby in the same year: Sunday Silence (1989), Unbridled (1990), American Pharoah (2015), and Authentic (2020)—with Authentic's Derby notably held in September due to the pandemic. Interestingly, American Pharoah remains the only one of those four who was favored in the Classic.

Takeaway: Like the Distaff, the Classic is a stage for proven class. Three-year-old sensation Sovereignty fits that mold and looks like the one to beat, but history shows it takes a rare talent to pull off this double. If you look to play against him, do so with a seasoned older horse—ideally one with class credentials and odds under 10-1.

MILE

In 2024, one of the strongest recent patterns finally broke as Charlie Appleby and the European contingent came up short in the Mile. Still, Appleby's record speaks for itself: 11 wins from 27 Breeders' Cup starters (41%), a strike rate few can match. Looking at the last 20 runnings of the Mile, the average winning odds sit at 13.4-1, but the median is just 5.1-1—a reminder that while longshots occasionally score, more often than not the winners are among the logical betting choices. Over that same span, 9 winners were trained by international connections, underscoring the global dominance in this race.

Takeaway: Appleby's Notable Speech failed as the favorite last year, but he remains a dangerous presence if he returns. He'll be aiming to follow in the footsteps of Modern Games and Master of the Seas as the third horse in four years to complete the Woodbine Mile–Breeders' Cup Mile double for Godolphin, Appleby, and William Buick. If you look to play against, history says stick with a proven, class contender near the top of the market.

DIRT MILE

RACE 11

Over the past seven runnings of the Dirt Mile, the winner has been positioned first or second for most of the race in five of those seven years (71%). The exceptions were 2022 and 2023, both impacted by the front-running horse Cody's Wish. While speed hasn't always dominated this race historically, recent years show it plays a major role. In that same seven-year span, the average winning odds were 4.37-1, while the median odds were just 2.16-1, highlighting that logical, well-supported contenders tend to prevail.

Takeaway: Look for speed, class, and logical betting choices in the Dirt Mile. It's a straightforward formula—don't overcomplicate it.

FILLY & MARE TURF

RACE 12

International dominance in the Filly & Mare Turf is clear. Trainers based outside the U.S. have captured 7 of the last 9 runnings (78%) and 16 of 26 total runnings (62%). Expanding the view, over the past 13 years, either an international-based trainer or Chad Brown has won 12 of 13 editions (92%), with the only exception being Kevin Attard's Moira last year (Appleby's Cinderella's Dream finished second). For those 12 international/Brown winners, the average winning odds were 7.37-1 and the median odds 6.65-1, showing that favorites are far from required. In fact, only twice were these winners the post-time favorite: Dank (2013) and Inspiral (2023).

Takeaway: You can feel confident backing Chad Brown or a classy international contender in the Filly & Mare Turf. History suggests, however, that there's no need to chase a short price—the race often rewards well-supported, but not necessarily favorite, options.
